New school program targets young readers

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

It isn't often that school districts can provide additional services without incurring additional local costs.

But the Granite City School District has developed a program allowing for more elementary school staff and a half-hour day of one-on-one instruction for first-grade children with reading difficulties at a savings of $15,000 to the education fund.

The school district is hiring five additional teacher aides for three hours a day each to work along with first-grade Chapter 1 instructors.

"It has always been a goal to be able to work one-on-one with students who have trouble reading," said Robert Bischoff, Chapter 1 director for the district.

"The problem has been what to do with the rest of the students during that time," Bischoff said. Federal funds are now available to provide teacher aides in first-grade classes in Chapter 1 schools (Prather, Lake, Wilson and Marshall), freeing up one half-hour each day for one-on-one instruction between the teacher and students with reading difficulties.

Because the federal funds can be used to pay for either the teachers' salary and benefits or for the aides' wages, the district will save about $15,000 by implementing the program, Bischoff said.

The total cost of the 11 teachers' salaries and benefits for one-half hour each day will be approximately $32,000, Bischoff said. He said the aides' wages are estimated at about $17,000 total.

By utilizing the Chapter 1 funds to pay for the teacher costs, the district will be able to implement a new service and save the education fund about $15,000—the difference between the cost of the aides and the amount of federal funding received.

"We didn't go into the program for the cost savings, but rather to be able to help more first-grade students who are having reading problems," Bischoff said, adding that the savings were a welcome surprise.

Bischoff explained that the program, to be implemented later this month, is possible due to a relaxation of federal funding regulations, resulting in more flexibility in how the district utilizes Chapter 1 funds.

"There is a whole new dimension opening up to us. If the program proves successful this year, we will look at expanding the program to kindergarten and the second grade as well," he said.

Madison OKs leaf-burning

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

The Madison City Council has reaffirmed the right of Madison residents to burn tree leaves this fall.

Bellico

On Tuesday, the aldermen were asked to allow the burning under the same ground rules as in the past: that the burning must be in daylight hours and is not allowed in streets, alleys or on any paved surfaces.

In other action, the council approved Bellico's appointment of Mike Foley as the city's building inspector.

Foley continues to hold the position of manager of the Alarm Department, performing dual duties. The move required a letter of understanding with Teamsters' Local 525, also approved by the council, that allowed Foley to honorably withdraw from the union but continue to perform limited union duties.

According to Jeanne Weidner, city comptroller, the combining of the positions will result in annual savings of more than $17,000.

The council also approved Bellico's appointment of Grover Brannan Jr. as the city's humane officer in conjunction with Brannan's current position as the city's health inspector.

Brannan has been the acting humane officer for nearly a year. Weidner said the combined position will save the city more than $2,000.

The city voted to declare Oct. 25 through Oct. 31 Red Ribbon Week in support of the fight against illegal drugs and drug abuse.

Halloween trick-or-treating hours were set for 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 31.

Trick-or-treaters are required to remain in their own neighborhoods and Bellico said the Police Department, Auxiliary Police and Fire Department will all be out in force Halloween night.

Two used-car firms agree to settlements

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

Illinois Attorney General Roland Burris has reached settlements with two area used-car businesses cited in a statewide sting operation in August.

Burris also announced that no further action is planned against two other dealers inspected during the sting.

Statewide, the Aug. 5 operation involved 78 used-car dealerships and resulted in uncovering more than 1,400 violations.

Charlie Ray's Quality Motors, 2320 Nameoki Road, was found to have violated the Federal Trade Commission's Buyer's Guide regulations for 35 of the 38 cars on its lot. The regulations require a Buyer's Guide to be displayed on every car offered for sale.

According to Dennis Orsey, assistant attorney general based in Granite City, Charlie Ray's agreed to sign a legal document called an Assumption of Voluntary Compliance, stating the dealership will comply with the FTC regulations in the future. The firm also agreed to and paid an assessment of $2,150 for the violations found in the August inspection.

2nd Labor Jam here Saturday

The second annual Solidarity Labor Jam, a celebration of the lives of working people, will be held from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday at the Tri-City Labor Temple, 2014 State St., Granite City.

Featured during the afternoon of songs, skits, stories and solidarity will be performing artist Anne Feeney of Pittsburgh, a self-proclaimed "performer, producer, and hell-raiser," bringing her message of rebellion, fun and organized labor.

Feeney, a "recovering attorney," performs rebellious music in the tradition of Bob Dylan, Woody Guthrie and Pete Seeger.

Among the songs in her repertoire: "We Just Come Here to Work (We Don't Come to Die)," a plea for better occupational safety from her fifth and latest album, "United We Bargain, Divided We Beg"; "In the White House," a parody of Mac Davis' "In the Ghetto" that suggests the Middle East War has the convenient side-effect of taking people's minds off domestic worries; and original and cover versions of songs dealing with topics such as the Clarence Thomas hearings, women's rights and labor concerns.

"I try to use popular music forms to explain a lot of the things people don't want to take the time to look into," Feeney said in a telephone interview last week.

"I used to tell a lot of lawyer jokes, but there are still a few out there trying to make sure the little people don't get pushed around by the big people, so I have stopped doing that," she said.

Students from Jane Vanesler's fourth-grade class at Lake Elementary School visit the outdoor classroom Wednesday afternoon.

Learning from nature:

Classroom continues to evolve

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

The grasses, weeds and seedlings are bigger now than they were when the Granite City School District outdoor-classroom project was unveiled last year.

The abundant wildlife includes butterflies and birds playing tag, frogs that were mere tadpoles at this time last year, and tens of thousands of grasshoppers.

All seem relatively unbothered by the steady hum of the nearby Illinois Power Co. electrical substation or by the inquisitive youngster bending down to study a ladybug crawling on a blade of grass.

The Granite City School District outdoor classroom continues to receive attention statewide.

The year-old, continuing project is a three-way partnership between Illinois Power, the Illinois Department of Conservation and the school district.

It is designed to convert the utility company's 19-acre East 23rd Street substation, located behind Lake Elementary School, into a classroom nature area featuring water ponds, foot trails and

Pratt suspension recommended

SPRINGFIELD — A state panel is recommending that prominent East Alton and Granite City personal-injury lawyer Paul L. Pratt be suspended for three years for making loans to clients.

A hearing board of the state Attorney Registration and Disciplinary Commission took nearly eight months to issue its report after taking testimony in Chicago in February on disciplinary charges originally brought against Pratt in 1989.

Pratt was charged with violating an Illinois Supreme Court rule barring lawyers from advancing financial aid to clients in pending cases except for direct costs of litigation.

The three-member hearing board concluded that the $417 loans totaling more than $2.7 million Pratt's law firms made to clients from July 1972 through 1989 violated the Supreme Court rule.

"We know this was a 20-year practice involving thousands of clients and millions of dollars. These loans undoubtedly helped (Pratt) obtain and retain clients," according to a report issued last week by two panel members: John Murray and Scott Boyd.

The third board member, Chris Averkiou, agreed with the recommended three-year suspension but was more critical in a separate report.

He wrote: "(Pratt) held himself out to the public as making cash advances to clients for the purpose of buying personal-injury cases."

Williamson upbeat despite poll results

For a contender who is being consistently clobbered in published polls, Republican Senate nominee Rich Williamson is incredibly optimistic.

With the Nov. 3 election fast approaching, Williamson says he is counting on a volatile but more focused Illinois electorate to dispel polls that stamp him as a likely loser.

Williamson's comments came in the aftermath of Monday's debate in Peoria in which he and Democratic opponent Carol Moseley Braun attacked each other's character and called each other liars.

Williamson hammered Braun on the Medicaid scandal involving income received by her mother while Braun attacked Williamson for using his White House connections to make large amounts of money.

The debate between Democrat Braun and Republican Williamson was held at Bradley University and broadcast live Monday by Illinois public television stations.

Afterward, the candidates each declared victory and said they were eager to spar again. One more debate is scheduled for next Thursday in Chicago.

A poll commissioned by Copley News Service showed Braun leading Williamson, a lawyer making his first bid for public office, 53 percent to 24 percent.

A poll done for the Chicago Tribune showed Braun, who upset Sen. Alan Dixon in the Democratic primary, ahead of Williamson by 58-24 percent.

"I think the thing to remember is that she was further behind Alan Dixon six weeks before the Democratic primary," Williamson said.

"You don't have people who are deeply involved in the war. They are looking around. They are going to make their decisions late."

Williamson began the debate Monday by saying the questions raised about the money received by Braun from her mother, who was in a nursing home paid for by Medicaid, had caused many voters to "rethink this election."

Man protests over county land auction

A land rush in Madison County is making it difficult for at least one resident to stake his claim.

A Godfrey man interested in purchasing county-owned vacant property said he has been unable to obtain the special forms needed to have those parcels of land included in a December auction.

The deadline for registering specific parcels was Wednesday, property not registered by then will not be available at the Dec. 23 auction in Collinsville.

"I think I'm getting the run-around," said Kaloiki Brantley, a Godfrey resident who said there were several pieces of property in Alton's Mexico neighborhood he wanted to bid on.

Officials at the real estate agency hired by the county to handle the December land sale repeatedly told Brantley the forms for registering parcels were not available.

At one point, Brantley said he was told the forms would be mailed to him. But when two weeks passed and the forms never arrived, Brantley went to the agency in person and was told the forms still were not available.

Brantley has been trying to obtain the forms for more than six weeks.

"When you live in this area you feel you should have the same opportunity as anyone else to bid on the property," Brantley said.

The real estate agent handling the sales, however, said he has been swamped by inquiries from interested bidders. The enormous response, he said, prevented him from mailing out the forms until late last week.

Jack Butler, who works for Joseph E. Meyer & Associates, acknowledged Brantley and some others would be unlikely to receive the forms in time to meet today's deadline.

"We'll save a spot for them. It's no problem," Butler said, adding that about 180 forms were mailed out.

But it was not clear whether the delays may have already made it impossible for Brantley and others mailed forms late last week to have a parcel included in the December auction.

There are more than 800 properties that have been seized by the county because of unpaid taxes. Most of them in Alton, Madison and Venice.

But only the first 348 parcels registered by Wednesday will be for sale at the December auction, Butler said. The remaining properties will not be available again until next year's auction, he said.

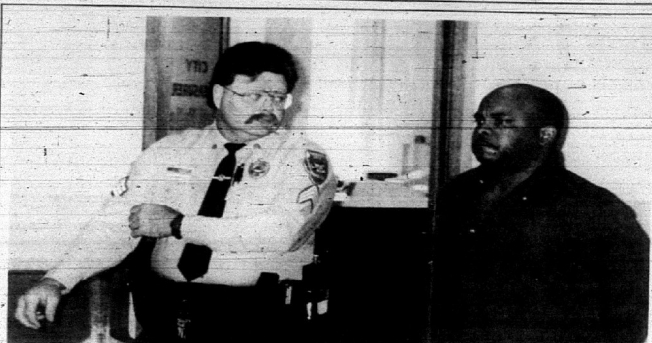

Butler said he did not know if the 348-parcel limit had been reached by Tuesday. The limit is necessary because of time limitations, Butler said.

Meyer & Associates is expected to publish a catalog of the 348 properties sometime in early November. Bids on those properties will be accepted until Nov. 26. The highest bid received will be the starting point for bidding at the auction, Butler said.

The Dec. 23 auction will be held at the Gateway Center in Collinsville.

Butler said he expects up to 600 people to attend the auction.

Meyer & Associates will receive 150 per parcel or 25 percent of the sale price, whichever is higher.

Only 3 attend water rate hearing

ALTON — Harold Swinney made his case to the Illinois Commerce Commission Tuesday evening.

A public meeting to discuss a proposed increase in water rates drew three Alton residents. Swinney voiced concern over Illinois-American Water Co.'s plan, which could add 13.5 percent to Alton residents' water bills.

"I think pretty highly of the Illinois-American Water Co., but you're asking for more money than we can afford," Swinney said.

The 73-year-old retired Olin worker said his last water bill was $87. The proposed increase would raise that sum by about $12.

"For people on a fixed income, we just can't stand it," Swinney said. Illinois-American Southern Division Manager Robert Jackson said an overall water bill increase of 20 percent for all its divisions would provide an additional $10.5 million annually to offset rising costs.

Jackson said rate increases in the Alton division, which includes Elmhurst and Godfrey, would amount to 13.5 percent.

"The company's operating expenses have increased significantly since the time of the company's last rate increase, which became effective in December of 1990," Jackson said.

He said personnel costs and a need for new equipment were the main reasons for the added expenses.

Robert Benskow, chief public forum officer for the Illinois Commerce Commission, said seven commissioners will make a final decision on the rate increase early next year.

The public meeting was the second of four to be held in the area. Benskow said a meeting in Granite City drew a small crowd last week. Gatherings will be held Oct. 26 in Belleville and Nov. 9 in Peoria.

Law bans radar detectors in buses, heavy trucks

Gov. Jim Edgar on Sept. 25 signed legislation proposed by Secretary of State George H. Ryan to bar heavy trucks and passenger buses from using radar detectors on Illinois highways.

"Most truck and bus drivers are careful, but those who speed or operate their vehicles erratically are a major menace on our highways," the governor said.

House Bill 3707 stemmed from a recommendation made last fall by Ryan's Safe Trucking Task Force, which included representatives from the trucking industry, labor unions and safety organizations.

The group joined several state and national organizations in endorsing the ban.

Edgar used his amendatory veto power to propose technical changes in House Bill 3598, another task force-backed measure that is expected to make Illinois the first state to create "drug-free" zones at all truck stops and rest areas.

If the governor's technical changes are accepted by the legislature, the new law will impose harsh penalties on anyone convicted more than once of selling drugs or drug counterfeits within 1,000 feet of a truck stop or rest area.

The maximum penalty doubles upon a second conviction, meaning an offender could face up to 30 years in prison.

The radar detector ban requires drivers of commercial vehicles to place "fuzzbusters" in locked compartments or outside the cab area when traveling Illinois roads.

Illinois is the fourth state in the nation to ban the devices from heavy trucks.

Police can ticket for radar detector violations only when stopping a vehicle for another offense.

The law provides a $50 fine for a first-time offender and a $100 fine for repeat violators. Police are allowed to seize radar jammers on a first offense and radar detectors on any repeat offense.

Ryan said he limited the ban to commercial vehicles based on studies showing truck drivers were far more likely than other motorists to use detectors to evade speeding laws.

In addition, heavy trucks crashing at high speeds are far more likely to cause death and injury than are passenger cars.

A federal study of 1990 high-way fatalities showed that car occupants were 89 times more likely to die than truck passengers in fatal crashes involving both kinds of vehicles.

The chief issues in Monroe County are the floodplain and the county's growth, Costello said.

"About half the county is in the floodplain and the Waterloo and Columbia areas are growing really fast," he said. "They need help with local roads and infrastructure. Local assistance we could provide."

Local officials also are seeking a site for a new bridge to link Illinois and Missouri near downtown St. Louis.

Costello said he will rely on experts and studies to determine the best location for a bridge.

The Collinsville Herald won a first place for newspaper design in the 3,001-10,000 weekly class.

"There were a lot of people who haven't necessarily been named who played a major role in these awards and I'm proud of everybody," Queen said.

Support airport proposal

If created, the Lakeside Airport Authority will have the ability to tax the residents of the district — including Granite City, Madison and Ponton Beach — as much as 7.5 cents for every $100 of assessed property valuation.

Supporters of the proposal on the Nov. 3 ballot concede — in what is almost unheard-of honesty — that although the airport authority could levy lower taxes than that, it probably wouldn't.

Thus, the obvious question is "Do we really need more people charging more taxes?" And, in the case of Lakeside Airport, the obvious answer is "Yes."

From the Wright Brothers' first flight in 1903, America has been told air transportation is the wave of the future. Many thought that by the year 2000 every house would have a two-airplane garage. While that hasn't happened, and may never happen, the fact remains that communities without readily available air transportation are already being left behind.

From coast to coast, America is dotted with ghost towns that were left in the dust when the railroads passed them by in the early part of the 20th century. From coast to coast, near-ghost towns missed by the mid-20th-century interstate highways are slowly dying away.

Television advertisements were between the one-day anywhere-in-the-world companies are a sure sign that most of us will live to see the day when airport-less communities become the slowly deteriorating museum pieces of still another bygone era.

The need for Lakeside Airport is real. One of the biggest backers of the Lakeside Airport proposal is the Federal Aviation Administration, which lists Lakeside's location as ideal from a technical standpoint and, through its trust fund, is prepared to pour millions of dollars into developing it. Close to the FAA's terms of enthusiasm is the Regional Commerce and Growth Association of the metropolitan St. Louis area. The RCGA has targeted development of Lakeside as one of its transportation priorities, citing it as a key to the economic development of the entire region.

The benefits of the airport will be real. Jobs will be created by the construction of a new facility. The new facility will have the potential of attracting new industries and new jobs.

But perhaps the most important benefit will be the jobs saved by the new airport. Nationwide, industrial delivery times are already being expressed in hours: 24 hours in the case of next day, 15 hours in the case of overnight, less than eight hours in the case of same day. The day when minutes in delivery time is the difference between keeping and losing a customer is within sight.

We are entering an era. Buckminster Fuller called the "international ocean of the air." Because the era is only beginning, developers are hark begging us for an airport. If we wait, the tables will turn. Then we will be the ones with hats in hand, hoping not to be left behind.

Voters must support creation of the Lakeside Airport Authority. In the short term it will be worth every penny and in the long term it could mean the very survival of the community.

Rehabilitate 1939 swimming pool

TO THE EDITOR: This is in response to your lengthy editorial on the support for the proposed $1,397,057 bond issue to build an aquatic center in Wilson.

As with all such questions, there are opposing views and facts which I feel the voters are entitled to know.

To compare the present swimming pool to an underpowered 1939 Lincoln Continental is not reasonable. A swimming pool is simply a concrete base, with walls not as thick as the base of a house but having a greater thickness and a strong network of steel reinforcement.

Well-made concrete has virtually unlimited durability, as many old structures will attest. A more apt comparison for the Wilson Park pool would be with a 30-year-old house. If the walls and foundation are sound, one can put on a new roof and gutters, upgrade the furnace, maybe put in a new put in a driveway, and the house can be used for many more generations.

If that were not the case, we would be tearing down houses all over town.

The existing swimming pool was recently examined in considerable detail by me and another longtime resident who is an architectural and structural engineer, now retired from one of the largest and most prestigious consulting firms in the country.

In our inspection we found some points of agreement and some points of disagreement with the consulting engineer who advised the board on the condition of the pool last May.

The gutters of the pool were separately cast and installed on top of the wall. A cement cap was then plastered over the top to finish the wall. This cap and the gutter have cracked in many places over the years and have been temporarily patched and repatched. A satisfactory rehabilitation definitely requires replacement of the gutter and the cap.

Close examination of the main walls did not disclose any structural failures. Scraping away cracked paint disclosed solid concrete. Blistering in a few areas was found to be superficial and readily correctable. The walls are plumb and straight, indicating no loss of their original design strength.

The floor of the pool appears to be in remarkable good structural condition and in good alignment.

ment. The control joints for accommodating expansion between slabs certainly need to be cleaned and re-caulked to eliminate leaks.

Modern elastomeric compounds can be obtained for $4.500. A single slab floor can be installed for about $30,000.

The deck slabs surrounding the pool have suffered surface deterioration over the years and been patched and repatched, and at small fraction of the cost to be entirely replaced for the relatively modest sum of about $20,000.

The Wilson Park pool is about the same age as the public pool in Clayton. The Clayton pool was rehabilitated a number of years ago with a new coping and deck and remains a very attractive and safe swimming pool. The park system takes considerable pride. Attendance continues to increase.

As an affluent community, Clayton could well afford to build a new facility, but instead made a conservative, economical choice.

By contrast, our Park Board has been avoiding rehabilitation for the Wilson Park pool for many years and has proposed one expensive facility after another, beginning with the infamous Wave-Tek surf pool.

The present proposal, when interest costs, attorney fees, and bond commissions are added up, will have a total cost approach three million dollars. Rehabilitation of the existing pool, by contrast, could be done in stages without a bond issue.

My strong impression from the board's meetings is that the board, therefore, did not really do its homework on the possibility of rehabilitating the existing pool.

It did not authorize a serious study by a professional consulting firm that did not have a stake in designing a new facility or a stake in defending a past recommendation.

I recommend a vote against the bond issue. I am confident a serious study to rehabilitate the existing pool will show how it can be made into an attractive facility for the next two or three years.

'Robin Hood' funding for Illinois schools?

The following is by Doug Finke of Copy News.

Illinois School Superintendent Robert Leininger says that state money may have to be taken away from wealthy school districts to help finance poor districts to help finance poor districts to help finance poor districts.

Dubbed a "Robin Hood" system — one that takes from the rich to give to the poor, the plan would be a measure of last resort to help property-poor districts.

"We have a problem in Illinois," Leininger said. "If we don't have additional funds to solve that problem, then we've got to use the existing amount of money, and the money is going to have to help pay for the haven."

The problem facing Illinois school districts — is the disparity in the amount each of them can spend to educate their students.

Wealthy districts spend up to $14,000 per student, while poorer districts spend only about $2,000 per student. A task force looking into school finance has determined that a district must spend $4,000 per student to provide an adequate education.

"The rich are getting richer, and the poor are getting poorer," Leininger said. "Will we have to look at some drastic solutions? You're right, if the General Assembly doesn't do something."

The state spends about $2.1 billion on general state aid under a formula that is weighted to help poorer districts, although even the wealthiest districts receive some money from it.

Roughly another $1 billion goes for "categorical programs" such as transportation and special education — and is allocated on a per-pupil basis, regardless of a district's wealth.

Leininger said some of the money that now goes to the wealthiest districts may have to be given to poorer districts if the General Assembly fails to deliver a tax increase for education.

Any such move would require a change in state law, something Leininger acknowledged would not be easy.

"This is logical; this is reasonable," Leininger said. "I'm not saying we're going to do that, but it's certainly one of the things that I'll have to bring before the state board for discussion."

Whether there is a tax increase to support education depends heavily on what voters do in November with a proposed school fund amendment to the state constitution, said Sen. John Maitland, R-Bloomington. Although there is disagreement on its scope, there seems to be no question that passage of the amendment would force a tax hike to come up with increased money for schools.

Although some suburban Republican lawmakers reacted angrily to Leininger's comments, Maitland said the school superintendent was only being honest.

"He's not a good politician," Maitland said. "He calls them like he sees them."

Favors full-time county coroner

TO THE EDITOR: At the homecoming in Bethalto on Sept. 5, I had the opportunity to listen to the candidates seeking public office.

All of the candidates that spoke, one that caught my attention was Larry Naylor, who is running for coroner. He spoke of his qualifications of being a direct embalmer, certified in mass disasters and certified military mortuary inspector. He was called back to active duty in Operation Desert Storm — and other qualifications.

What astounded me was the newspaper article that he held up, quoting our present coroner, stating the only calls she personally responds to are hospital and nursing home deaths, and answering phone calls.

For an elected official whose salary is $9,000, I feel that his tax money is being abused. Naylor also stated that he is now self-employed, but as coroner he would resign from his business and become a full-time coroner, unlike our present coroner, who continues to operate a funeral home.

I believe Naylor will make this office a full-time job, giving it the best attention he can. The next night I went back to hear Dallas Burke, our present coroner, speak, but she sent someone else to speak for her. Some questions that we deserve answers to are: How much over budget did her office run during her term? What mortuary school did she attend? Why does she have three full-time deputies?

Is it true that response-time delays are up to two hours? What other training has she had? Since we have no county morgue, where are bodies held for family, law enforcement and the medical profession?

During this year of political change, don't the people of Madison County deserve a new coroner — Larry Naylor — who will give the coroner's office his full attention, respond to the majority of coroner's calls personally, and cut the budget so your tax-paying dollars are spent wisely?

Madison County needs Naylor as coroner. He is well trained, highly qualified, and will give the people of this county their first full-time coroner in the history of the county.

Imbalance in salaries at BAC

TO THE EDITOR: The education system in Illinois cries for reform. Grade school teachers generally spend the entire school year before the students. Preparation and grading must be done after hours.

Even the most dedicated teacher often cannot accomplish everything he or she desires. Compensation is often low. The high schools seem to have achieved a more reasonable mix. The teachers teach five periods, which allows more time to prepare, and compensation is generally better.

But things have gone astray at some junior colleges, like Belleville Area College.

A full-time load at BAC is considered teaching 150 minutes a day for 150 days a year.

Teachers are also required to stay at school for an additional two hours a day in case students have questions.

One-hundred and fifty minutes may be enough for some teachers, such as English teachers who spend countless hours grading papers, but what about the instructors who spend very little or no time in preparation? For so little work, many earn in the $50,000 to $60,000 range.

At BAC, most opt to teach additional classes and summer school. They are paid well. The top 50 percent of the full-time faculty now average over $70,000 per year including health insurance and pension.

The entire full-time faculty now averages over $59,000. BAC is able to pay such wages by extending the "temporary" taxes, raising tuition, and taking advantage of the part-time teachers by paying them so little in comparison that, if they were allowed to teach a so-called full load, each would earn around $10,000 a year.

As long as the people in power have a banana-republic mentality — "take care of your friends and associates, and the hell with the rest!" — these problems will remain.

Budget 'cutters' for big spending

TO THE EDITOR: I read a recent letter that gave the rationale for supporters of the (Ross) Report "Fix It Party" to vote for (Democrats) Bill Clinton/Al Gore. The logic used in the letter should have included more items to pin on President George Bush.

1) 35 percent of cars on the highway are foreign made. "Who

When Poland's Communist government collapsed, Bush said $200 million to help them out. Sen. Paul Simon said send $900 million.

2) Amtrak wants to discontinue the train from St. Louis to Carbondale, as it is losing $1.4 million a year, of which the taxpayers subsidize $800,000. Sen. Simon says it has to run.

3) The first trial run of a completed segment of the St. Louis mass transit project showed Simon/Costello/Gephhardt riding the transit car. I am surprised Richard Gephardt, the champion of "American built," was on the car, as it was built in Germany and the other cars will also be built in Germany.

4) Rep. Jerry Costello had the Alton Lock Visitors Center (pork barrel) increased from 6,000 to 24,000 square feet, costing $5 million. The other locks on the river are open-air visitor centers.

It's sure nice to know that Simon/Costello/Gephhardt support a balanced budget amendment. I still remember the peanut farmer's 23 percent interest/1/1 percent unemployment. I will not vote the new covenant Clinton Party, but will vote the old covenant party which still recognizes the commandment, "Thou shalt not steal."

Pleased by trail

TO THE EDITOR: It was a most pleasant walk to take around the recently completed trail around Wilson Park.

The black asphalt walkway now presents an all-weather trail for hikers, walkers, bike riders and joggers, without any danger of running in the street or walking there.

When the weather turned bad, it made the old trailway very muddy and left ruts when it dried.

Many thanks to Dennis Wilmsmeyer, who was chairman of the committee to raise funds for this much-needed facility, and thanks to the Park Board for providing the remaining funds to complete the fitness trail.

It is much appreciated by everyone who exercises and uses the trailway. Congratulations to one and all for a great project done for our community.

Saints Alive, the Senior Adult group of the Madison County Baptist Association, held the October meeting in the Granite City First Baptist Church, President Bob Lewis, opening the meeting by welcoming members including three new members.

Vera Ridgeway lead the singing of the hymns, "The Lily of the Valley," and "Since Jesus Came into My Heart." Bob and Ruth Rupprecht and Bob and Betty Lewis celebrated their anniversaries and the group sang "Happy Birthday" to them. Prayer requests were taken and Evelyn Daily led the prayer.

A song was dedicated to the retiring officers and Vera also led in singing some fun songs.

Dr. Wilkinson announced the group plans an outing on Oct. 22 to Pere Marquette Park to view the fall colors and eat lunch in the Pinn Inn. They will leave at 10 a.m. from the Third Baptist Church. Eva Varrow and Bill Holloway, accompanied by Louie Ackock, at the piano, presented special music—Ray, Carl gave a devotional and asked the blessing on the pot luck dinner.

A beautiful cake and ice cream, donated by the Madison County Baptist Association, was also served to Bob Lewis, Myra Grote, Vera Krikpatrick, Louie Ackock, Jim and Vera Ridgeway, Vergil and Olive Stogschild, Cecile Sullivan, Jenny Peters, Vickie Harper, Ray Jones, Eva Varrow, Cleotis Bardsley, Bill and Betty Holloway, Gene Harvates, Evelyn Daily, and Rupprecht, Kathy Sargent, Norma Rains, Lela Kaseburg, Paula Harp, Deloris Hillis, Dr. Elwyn Wilkinson, Ron and Mary Alice Wiese, Lloyd Matchell and Rev. Watkins. The next meeting will be on Jan. 4 in the West 22nd Street Baptist Church in Granite City. It will start at 10:30 a.m. with a pot luck at noon.

The annual Avon Collectors Club show and sell, held recently in the recreation hall on Ponton Road, reportedly was a great success with over a thousand attending over the weekend. Attendance gifts were awarded on the hour and the raffle drawings were awarded to Darnelle Kessler of Granite City, Henry Fischer of St. Louis, Wanda Lloyd of St. Louis, Theresa Simon of Collinsville and Velera Schorfhede of Granite City. The banquet, held Saturday evening in the Harvest Buffet House in St. Louis, was attended by 50 guests, who came from many different states. They had an enjoyable time visiting and playing fun games and each received a collectors gift from Avon and are looking forward to meeting in October of next year.

The October meeting of the Ruth Class of Calvary Baptist Church met Tuesday, Oct. 6, with Pauline Weir as the church library. Prayer requests were made for Ruth Moser's daughter-in-law, Carolyn. The theme was "Glads-Hutson, people on prayer request list, Brenda and Lois Rivers, Brenda Mendenhall, Pat Wallis, niece, Theime Phelps, and Pam Vasquez. Prayer was given by Dorothy Watkins.

A devotional was given by Pauline Weir on "The Long Road Home." Ruth Dagon, secretary, read the minutes of the September meeting. The treasurer's report was given by Pat Wallis. Pat Wallis gave the nominating committee report of committee chosen as follows: group leaders, Bernice Boyer, Madeline Lewallen, and Norma Ross, Secretary Ruth Dagon, Outreach Leader Pauline Weir, Treasurer Pat Wallis, Fellowship Chairmen Pat Wallis and Maxine Hoover, Prayer Leader Ruth Moser, and Cheer, Chairman Dorothy Watkins. Pat Wallis made a motion to send get-well or "Think."

Essays become a best seller for local native

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

Asked if her son had recently had a book published, Mary Lou Jones of Granite City replied emphatically: "Not just a book. He wrote a best seller."

"Do I sound like a proud mother or what?" Ken Jones' book, "God Happened To Be In The Neighborhood," is, in fact, selling quite well nationally.

It was recently featured by its publisher, Victor Books of Wheaton, Ill., at an international Christian book fair.

Locally, it is available at Jacob's Well book store and Sunshine Books. Ken Jones said its warm reception prompted the publisher to urge him to begin writing another book.

A senior associate pastor at the Valley Christian Center in Dublin, Calif., Ken Jones grew up in Granite City and his book is a collection of short essays.

"I hope people reading the book get a look inside a very plain-vanilla person," Ken Jones said. "I wanted to take plain, everyday events and show how they are related to eternal values."

"Spell my last name!" I said. "Ma'am, I've been waitin' all my life for somebody to ask me how to spell my last name. It's J-O-N-E-S. No frills. No flash. Just plain Jones."

Seated alphabetically in Miss Jordan's third grade class, Ken Jones' essay says, "In one of those late June landings, right in the middle of the classroom, Ben Allen got the first seat."

When you had a name like Jones, you never got to sit in the backseat, either, away from the glaring eyes of Miss Jordan.

"That seat was always for Ron Yates. For the next nine months, he got to sit back there with Janet Rhine and pass out seeds and eat sunflower seeds and have fun."

Going to recess or lunch, Allen usually got to go first. But, sometimes, to be fair, Dr. Wilkinson started at the end of the alphabet and Ron Yates got to go first.

"That lucky dog. He got the best seat in the class and he even got to go to recess first once in awhile."

The essay points out that God is a common name, too, and that many people don't let Him sit in the very front seat of their lives. "That's for the A's—the top priorities, the plans and ideas and dreams that make a back seat to anyone or anything."

"They're not nifty enough to send Him to the back row."

"As a result, God ends up in the third seat, third row, of people's lives."

"They send Him, like a third-grade boy, to be lost in the anonymity of the third row."

"That ought not to be. He deserves better."

"This name deserves a higher place of honor, because Holy and awesome is His name—Psalm 111:9."

Jones said he wanted to keep his essays short—two to three pages and stress entertainment. Hopefully, he said, they are inspiring as well.

"I enjoy the art of storytelling," he said. "So many people don't have time to read or don't like to read, so my goal was to take a light approach. I believe the Bible is a very practical book. That's why I quote it so much."

Another essay tells of camping out at the St. Louis Gateway Arch the night before it opened in order to be among the first persons to go inside.

At 1:30 a.m., Ken Jones and his group gave in to hunger and the need for sleep and called off the vigil. As a result, someone else was first and Jones watched sadly as that person was on all the local television news programs.

"I missed it. I could have done it, but I had a bag full of burgers and a warm bed for a chance to make history."

Still another essay tells of an unpopular school subject—Latin—with a disliked teacher who he gives a pseudonym—who loved music in C sharp minor.

"I earned a degree in music and even composed and published some of it. But I never wrote anything in C sharp minor because I don't hear the song of life in C sharp minor."

Ken Jones said Granite City is a special place and that it is made special by its people.

"Granite City's not the garden spot of a lot of places that are more beautiful," he said. "But the people of Granite City, with their friendly, Midwest roots and conservative values, make it a very endearing place."

"I like to think I'm still a part of that. The essays are peppered with friends, family members, Sunday school teachers and others who 'perhaps unwittingly' played roles in Ken Jones' life."

Granite City High School teacher) in a long time and I don't even know if he knows he is in a book. But he has given me nothing but fond memories and I hope he would be pleased," Davis said.

While Jones disliked his Latin teacher, he traces a major turning point in his life to the classroom of another teacher: Goni Michaeloff, who is now an administrator with the Granite City School District.

According to the final essay of the book, it happened on a day the class was reading Emily Dickinson.

"She opened the book and read... slowly, with deep feeling, in whispered tones and unashamed truthfulness, the words of a young woman; words of another mariner learning into the wind: 'I'm Nobody! Who are you? Are you—Nobody—too?'"

"Then there's a pair of eyes—'Don't tell! they'd advertise—you know!'"

Ken Jones felt Michaeloff was peering into his soul. He was a nobody and had come to that realization as he sat in a ninth-grade honors English class on a warm spring afternoon.

While continuing to laugh outwardly, he whispered the first line of the poem to himself.

He was sailing into the wind and there was no, safe harbor. Finally, he silently cried out, "My name is Nobody and I need help."

"That's when I saw Him, standing brave and unafraid on the mountainous waves of doubt and fear. ... This Mariner of mercy looked into the face of Nobody and spoke three wonderful words: "Peace, Be Still!"

"No storm could threaten in His presence, and in submission and obedience the waves subsided."

Christ told him that Nobody was being adopted and given a new name: Christian.

"And when storms of uncertainty and loneliness appear on the horizon, remember your name, for in remembering your name you remember My name. Never speak of Nobody again."

Ken Jones said it would be hard to overstate the effect Michaeloff had on his life. Michaeloff gave him the desire to write, he said, and she was one of the first people he sent a copy of his book after it was published.

"I wanted her to like it. I want her to be proud of me. But I haven't talked to her. I guess I'm kind of afraid," Ken Jones said.

"She was my English teacher and it's still kind of intimidating to think she is scoring my writing. She will see the grammatical errors, the dangling participles, all the flaws."

He need not have been worried. Michaeloff read Ken Jones' book and was thrilled.

"Tell him that for me, when you talk to him," she said. "I'm very proud of him—he was always a favorite."

YOUTH FOCUS: Who would make the best president, George Bush or Bill Clinton?

(Asked of junior students at Granite City Senior High School, Madison High School and Venice High School.)

Chad Wzianik, Granite City
"I think Bill Clinton would probably make a better president than George Bush. Bush was good with foreign policies, but I think Bill Clinton would be better with domestic policies, as well as with foreign policies. We need a president who will be more concerned about his own country rather than the rest of the world, and I think Bill Clinton would be that person."

Chad Miner, Granite City
"I would vote for Bush because he has shown his leadership ability during the Middle East conflict, and the economical problems that we face are not only domestic, but international. These problems cannot be solved by one person, it takes the cooperation of Congress working with the President of the United States."

Loren Mosby, Granite City
"I would think Bush should win because he has more experience. Bush has been a vice president and a president. Bush has publicly but Bush has more Bush is more popular than Clinton. Bush is a stud. Bush should win because he will provide all the needs of the U.S. citizens. Bush can make the right decisions."

Devonnie Burrell, Venice
"If I could choose I would choose Clinton because the Reagan and Bush era has served this country up. I feel that Bush doesn't care about the middle class and under. He always talks about what he's going to do to help when, in fact, he does nothing to help. I think Clinton would be a nice change. I honestly think he will try to do what he promises."

Clover Gates, Venice
"I think Bill Clinton would

Athenie Black

make a better president than George Bush because Bush already has had four years to prove himself and he hasn't changed anything. We need to get someone else in office (Clinton) to see if he can get the job done."

Tiffany Taylor, Venice
"Compared to Bush, there is no doubt, I would choose Clinton. We don't need any more years of Bush, because basically he didn't do the job well. Clinton points out daily problems in America today. Clinton in my opinion would get the job done. Today in America we need a president who would get the job done, instead of talking about the problems in America, we need to get the job done. Clinton talks about these problems and gives suggestions on how we can solve them or make them better. Last, I would want him to be the president, because he doesn't beat around the bush about what needs to be done, to better the lives of Americans."

Erskine Horton, Venice
"I think that Bush would make a better president than Clinton. Perot is buying votes and has just decided to get into the race. Bush would very well be the best for the job, but Clinton would give him a run for the money."

Allen Bloodworth

Joi Woodfork, Venice
"I prefer Bill Clinton. He would take care of today's issues and help today's economy."

Athena Black, Madison
"Of the people running for president, Bill Clinton is the best choice. I don't share his feelings on many issues, such as abortion. However, I like where he stands environmentally, and would rather have him as president than George Bush, who has done nothing for the economy. Clinton will do more for the environment and the economy."

Allen Bloodworth, Madison
"Bill Clinton is the better presidential nominee because he will get the nation out of debt. Bush is in debt because of Bush spending money. If he didn't waste all of our money, we wouldn't be in debt now by trillions of dollars. The country is almost impossible to live in now because of things like economic struggle, racial violence, and many other things. Clinton would make things better for the American citizens."

Ronrice Coleman, Madison
"The President makes very important decisions concerning our lives. Bill Clinton should have an opportunity to prove to America what he can really do. He couldn't do any worse than George Bush because Bush made promises that he couldn't keep. For instance, he raised taxes when he said he would lower them. Bill Clinton seems to be interested in what the people are doing. It's hard to tell if he is really concerned or not until he is elected for President. We don't know for sure, but we can do it hope and pray that Bill Clinton will make the United States of America a better place to live."

Nikita Gregory, Madison
"I choose Clinton to be president, because Bush had his chance and he didn't do anything for our country. People are starving, have nowhere to live, and business is very bad. Clinton is the better man to be president because he knows what he's doing, and he's trying to help all our countries, but Bush is trying to make a come back on every single idea that Clinton makes. People say neither one doesn't need to be president, because they aren't any good. I think so too, but it's time to make a change in president. Because Bush doesn't need to be, it because Clinton is the better man for the job."

Jason Jones, Madison
"Bill Clinton would make a better president for a number of reasons. First, George Bush has increased the country's budget with the excessive purchase of defense protection. Clinton has proposed a plan to reduce the national budget and to limit the amount of money used solely for defense. Second, Bush supported Medicare cut-backs. Clinton has proposed a plan to increase the amount of money spent on medical care each year by limiting monies sent for foreign aid. Next, Bush is a Republican who supports the rich, upper class. Clinton is a Democrat who supports the people of the working class. I'm voting for Clinton, but are you?"

ing-of-you cards when a class member is ill and a memorial sent in case of death for spouse, mother, father, or children—a motion was made to accept this and it carried. A motion was also made to accept those nominated for officers by Pat Wallis and seconded by Maureen Lewallen. Pauline Hall gave the cheer chairman report of two get well cards, five thinking of you, six sympathy cards sent, making a total of 13 cards sent. There was an attendance of 65, nine visits, 25 phone calls, and eight letters sent.

A report was made on a trip to Benjamin's Restaurant at Godfrey, where they ate in the Lincoln Room. The food was delicious and reasonable. A fall foliage trip was discussed, stopping at the Lodge at Pere Marquette for an all-you-can-eat chicken dinner, and visiting antique shops in Gratiot. A possible shipping trip was planned for November.

A trip was discussed for December to see the lights at Lady of the Snows, eating at the Olive Garden at Fairview Heights, followed by a tour of Tilles Park and the lights in downtown St. Louis.

Dorothy Watkins planned a game participated in by all class members where many church members names were mentioned; much fun was had by all members and prizes were given to each class member. Maxine Hoover was the hostess and delicious refreshments were served. Ruth Moser gave the blessing. For November, Ruth Moser will be hostess, Maureen Lewallen will give the devotional and Ruth Dagon will be in charge of games.

The Magna Club 55 will participate in a Caribbean Dream Cruise, Oct. 24 through Oct. 31, which will begin by flying to Fort Lauderdale and on to a cruise through San Juan, St. Thomas and St. Martin, on the Costa Cruise Lines. You may choose to explore the Old San Juan historic district or magnificent Old Forts. St. Thomas, of course, offers wonderful, duty-free shopping and an excursion to nearby St. John. A visit to Serena, Cay and Casa DeCainpo and Nassau complete the dream cruise. Call 727-3560 for full details.

The Baptist Senior Choir will present the cantata, "Learning to Live Again," on Sunday, Nov. 1, in the First Baptist Church in Madison and on Dec. 6 in the South Roxana First Baptist Church during the evening service.

The Granite City Senior Social Club will have a Halloween party on Monday, Oct. 26, in the Township Hall at 2600 Delmar Avenue. Doors will open at 5 p.m. Donations of $2 will be accepted. Meeting will begin at 6 p.m. Prizes will be given for the best costumes and door prizes will also be given. Refreshments will be served and music by "The Alley Kats" will be played from 7 to 10 p.m.

Outdoor event Saturday at Horseshoe Lake

The Granite City Campus-of-Belleville Area College and the Mid-America Aquacenter will present a free outdoor experience at the Horseshoe Lake Recreation Area this Saturday, Oct. 17. The event will be from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Steve Held, coordinator of college activities at the campus, said the nature tour ties in with the theme of cafeteria renovations, which are a reflection of this area's wetlands and wildlife. Held added that this is the height of the season for viewing fall foliage.

The four- to six-mile leisurely walking tour will be conducted by Leonard Sonnenschein, director of the proposed Aquacenter. Lunch will be provided by the center.

THE COLD WAR ISN'T OVER YET.

And there are all kinds of casualties. Unemployment. A family crisis. Or a long-term illness. It could happen to anyone. Add to that the normal increase in energy cost that's needed for heat during the winter months and you're fighting a losing battle.

Warm Neighbors can save the day. Administered by the Energy Assistance Foundation, Warm Neighbors is a non-profit organization founded in 1982 with a $250,000 donation from Illinois Power. When you give to Warm Neighbors, Illinois Power gives too. Dollar for dollar up to $100,000. Thanks to your generosity, nearly 2,000 needy families were sheltered from last winter's chill.

Other personalities from the labor/arts world who will appear are Eddie Starr, a Granite City Steel employee and member of United Steelworkers Local 67, whose rock/folk-based songs of unionism and social conscience are well-known in this area; Carl Fichtenbaum, a member of the American Federation of Musicians and a singer and songwriter of labor, social commentary and political blends; Derek Morgan, of International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers Lodge 837, who combines country music style with humor to depict work place atrocities; and Fred Stanton of Machinists Lodge 1346, whose song-writing talents have taken him to picket lines everywhere.

There will also be an open microphone session for anyone wishing to contribute their talents or experiences. Children will perform skits on labor history. Auctions, shirt sales and prize distributions will be held throughout the event.

Williamson is charging that the payments to Braun were an unethical way of keeping her money on medical bills.

Braun acknowledged a mistake may have been made but promised to make good, if necessary. She ripped Williamson for continuing to hammer on the question.

"I have now spent the last six months fighting the most sleazy campaign we have seen in Illinois history," Braun said. "The fact of the matter is, my record has been excellent."

As far as my mother's issue was concerned, I came clean. I told the people of Illinois and everyone involved that I would make good on whatever errors or omissions we as a family had undertaken.

"We've done our best to take care of my mother for many, many years," Williamson countered. "A desire to take care of your parent doesn't excuse an attorney and a legislator who voted time and again on Medicaid for doing things that were wrong." Braun shot back. "I have no problem being responsible and accountable. Accountability is important to me. That's how we protect the integrity of our government."

"But to have someone constantly twisting the Freddy Krueger of Illinois politics as makes it very difficult to run for office."

Braun also accused Williamson of running ads that distorted her legislative record.

Williamson repeatedly hit Braun for voting for 11 state tax increases.

Braun said Williamson's role in the Reagan administration as the man in charge of the "new federalism" to shift responsibility for programs from the federal government to states had forced tax increases.

She said she had supported tax decreases, such as removing the sales tax on food and medicine. Williamson said his support of the decreases was "a mistake."

"I wanted to reduce big government in Washington," Williamson continued to characterize her as a professional politician, Braun ripped him for being a lobbyist for a foreign country. He made $1.5 million for less than two years' work in a large corporation "while others were getting pink slips," she said.

Braun charged Williamson had used his White House connections to "make a fortune."

"It's hard to keep up with all these lies," Williamson said. He said the foreign company he had lobbied for also has 4,000 employees in Illinois.

He said he was one of several executives who received severance pay after a takeover of Beatrice Co. and that he paid $700,000 in taxes on the income.

On the issue of crime, Williamson rapped Braun for supporting the decriminalization of marijuana. He said his niece in Texas had started smoking marijuana and ended up addicted to more serious drugs.

"Chasing pot smokers is wasting money on a program that should instead be used for going after hard drugs," Braun replied.

Cars

Orsey said Accent Motors, 2914 Nameoki Road, also signed an Assumption of Voluntary Compliance and agreed to and paid an assessment of $850.

Orsey said that during the August operation, 11 of 25 cars at the Accent lot were found in violation of the FTC regulations.

Two other "used car dealers,

Sunshine Auto Sales, 3002 Nameoki Road, and BBH Motor Co., Collinsville, were found to have only minor technical violations during the August operation.

Orsey said that each was sent a letter listing the violations and warning that future violations would result in legal action, including possible fines.

"We were very happy to be able to negotiate this relatively quickly," Orsey said.

"We don't like being bogged down for a year or two. This time, we were able to reach a settlement that is fair to everyone and protects everyone's rights."

Orsey said the Attorney General will continue to monitor all car areas used by dealers in the future and, if the dealers are found violating FTC regulations, action will again be taken.

prairie plant life. The project recently received more than $26,800 in the form of a state scientific literacy grant. This is the second consecutive year the project has received state funding.

Tom Pinnell, a biology teacher at Granite City High School, is the project director.

"A lot of people with no idea of the concept of an outdoor classroom want it to be finished and as never-ending as it is always evolving," Pinnell said. "Eventually, project coordinators hope to develop a self-guided ed nature trail at the site. A number of stations at the site will feature learning activities in which students may participate."

Pinnell said in-service training will be held in the next two weeks for teachers interested in utilizing the classroom in their science curriculum.

A booklet suggesting lessons and learning activities is being compiled.

Among the activities will be "poking around in the pond," where students will dip out a sample of pond water and use magnifiers to examine what they find.

"One of the great aspects is that an instructor can take the students out there four times during the year, and they're going to find something different each time," Pinnell said.

Other activities will be hunting for the various shapes found in round weeds, heart-shaped leaves and square stems — and identifying tree species from leaves.

Most of the lessons include activities targeting elementary-age children, Pinnell said, but secondary-level botany and biology classes will also utilize the classroom.

The classroom without walls, in the midst of nature, is said to be one of the first of its kind in the state.

Pratt

cases and gaining a competitive advantage over the other lawyers in his regional market who followed the edicts of the Supreme Court rule.

A lawyer since 1964, Pratt has been one of the most successful plaintiffs' attorneys in the Metro East area and the nation and has also been a major contributor to local Democratic politicians.

Pratt is out of town for the next three weeks and cannot be reached for comment, personnel in his office said Tuesday.

However, Chicago attorney William Harte, who represents Pratt in the disciplinary case, contended the hearing board's conclusions were "contrary to the law as well as the evidence."

He said the three-year suspension was "preposterous."

Harte predicted the recommendations would not stand up on further appeals.

"It essentially is a decision that will be applauded by the vested interests. They will be able to squeeze these indigent people into quick settlements."

In previous hearings, Pratt contended the loans his firms made were permitted under a state high-court decision permitting help for indigent clients.

Pratt has challenged the hearing board's report and is requesting the next step, a hearing by a review board of the commission.

The review board process will probably take several more months, and it would then be up to the Illinois Supreme Court to determine whether Pratt should be disbarred.

Murray and Boyd threw out a related conflict of interest charge brought by the commission administrator.

Pratt "did not engage in this practice for the purpose of making extra money on the loans," Murray and Boyd said in their majority report.

They also said Pratt "made these loans primarily to poor clients, and these loans, in general, helped those clients receive larger recoveries on their claims."

Averkov disagreed on the conflict of interest charge, saying Pratt's action "as loan officer and litigation attorney places him in a conflict of interest which may affect his professional judgment."

"Cash advances to clients create an appearance that the lawyer is buying the litigation," and make the client financially dependent on the lawyer," he said.

Diabetes can damage your eyes without your even knowing it. It affects blood vessels throughout your body including the capillaries in the retina of your eyes. These tiny blood vessels are especially vulnerable in diabetics. They can leak, collapse or grow weak new vessels likely to rupture and scar. All of these conditions can threaten your vision and are symptoms of diabetic retinopathy, a complication of diabetes and one of the leading causes of new blindness among adults in the United States.

Frequently unnoticed by its victims in early stages, your vision usually isn't affected until the damage is significant. Diabetic retinopathy is more likely to occur in persons with long-term diabetes. But people with mild diabetes controlled by diet are at risk too. With early detection and careful monitoring, vision loss due to diabetic retinopathy can be more effectively controlled.

A retinal specialist can help you

A retinal specialist is uniquely qualified to handle the special visual problems of diabetics. He or she is a medical doctor trained as a board certified ophthalmologist — an eye physician and eye surgeon — with an additional one to three years of training in retinal diseases at a major university hospital.

Now metro east has its own retinal specialist. He is Dr. Vernon Hermesen, previously director of retinal surgery at the University of Texas Medical Branch, Texas A & M, and St. Louis University School of Medicine. In 1991, he established Retina Surgery Ltd. in The Eye Surgery Center of Drs. Terence Klingele and Homer Ferguson of Belleville.

Prior to his arrival, we had to send all of our retinal patients to St. Louis because no one here was qualified to help them," said Dr. Ferguson. "This was a problem for some of our patients. They were reluctant to get the treatment that they needed and sometimes did not because of the distance." Now treatment by a fulltime retinal specialist is readily available.

Don't Let Diabetes Steal Your Vision!

There's a huge spectrum of things that we can do for people with diabetic retinopathy to stop or slow down the progression of visual impairment," added Dr. Hermesen. "There's the laser. While it can do everything, it can seal leaking blood vessels. We can also use it to destroy some unhealthy new vessels. Once they are destroyed, the tendency to produce new blood vessels is also decreased."

A veteran of laser therapy due to his background as a researcher and professor at several medical schools, Dr. Hermesen has been using lasers for 21 years. The Eye Surgery Center is equipped with advanced technology including ultrasound and the Argon and Krypton lasers used to treat many retinal conditions.

"Another important treatment we provide for diabetic retinopathy," continued Dr. Hermesen, "is a surgical procedure called a vitrectomy. This procedure is to treat diabetic complications deep within the eye. If there has been a hemorrhage from broken blood vessels, we remove the blood and treat the broken vessels during the vitrectomy. If there is scar tissue, we gently remove it from the retina. A major reason people go blind from retinal diseases such as diabetic retinopathy is because they grow too much scar tissue," he said. This procedure is performed in the hospital with the patient asleep." Dr. Hermesen was the first to perform the vitrectomy in the metro east area and continues to be the only surgeon who performs this surgery in local hospitals.

What you can expect

New diabetic patients at Retina Surgery Ltd. undergo a complete retinal exam. Patients with no diabetic retinopathy are sent back to their original eye care professional but are seen at Retina Surgery Ltd. about a year. If they have evidence of minimal diabetic retinopathy, we see them in about six months and take photos of their eyes for monitoring purposes," said Dr. Hermesen. "We are the only facility in the metro east that has an on-site darkroom staffed by a fulltime certified photographer with the ability to all of the processing ourselves. These are not just snapshots that you send out to the local quick print for processing. This state-of-the-art photography is a critical part of monitoring diabetic retinopathy to help preserve their vision."

Warrior golfers advance; state tournament up next

Players ready to make school history

By Brian Henry
City Correspondent

Even before the Warrior golf team teed off for the first time this season, Russ Chappell touted his group as being the best he'd had in 20 years of coaching. Since then, the Warriors broke school records for team scoring and wins in a season, and they advanced out of their regional last week. But the one accomplishment which may have proved Chappell right once and for all came on Tuesday.

Granite City advanced as a team to the state tournament for the first time in school history by shooting a 316 at the Decatur sectional held at Hickory Point golf course.

With three players breaking 80, the Warriors were just barely good enough as they edged Springfield Sacred-Heart Griffin (318) for the third and final berth to the state tournament. The state tourney begins Friday in Danville with the first of two 18-hole rounds.

"I'm very, very happy for the kids," Chappell said. "It's unbelievable. I'm getting ready to hang it up, so I'm glad it finally happened."

No one knew for sure who would continue on until the final foursome came in. P.J. Hamilton came in with a 78 to drop Granite City's score from 323 to 316, which ensured the Warriors a trip to state.

Hamilton, who was also shooting for an individual berth at state, missed the cut-off point (77) by one stroke. But his disappointment was soon diminished as he found out he and his teammates were going to Danville.

"At least we're going to state, that's what is most important," Hamilton said. "The chips fell for me because I missed the cut by one. I felt we had it wrapped up when I found out what the other guys were shooting, but we had to wait again."

P.J. has always had the talent and if he gets it in his head that he can play well, he will," Chappell said. "Something has happened to him in the last couple weeks and he's playing well."

Sophomore Ken Felty shook off a subpar regional performance at Arlington last week and led the Warriors with a 76. Gabe Mitchell shot a 77, while Alton's Aaron Henehan scored late in the second quarter when the Warriors failed to clear the ball deep in their zone. The ball trickled past goalkeeper Cory Cooper and made the score 2-1.

Alton's Aaron Henehan scored late in the second quarter when the Warriors failed to clear the ball deep in their zone. The ball trickled past goalkeeper Cory Cooper and made the score 2-1.

The Warriors played more evenly in the second half. It was a much different outcome than the last time the Warriors and Redbirds met - Sept. 8, when Granite City won easily 5-0 at Alton.

"We came ready to play," Nasello said. "After the first goal, I was pretty upset. But we came back after being down."

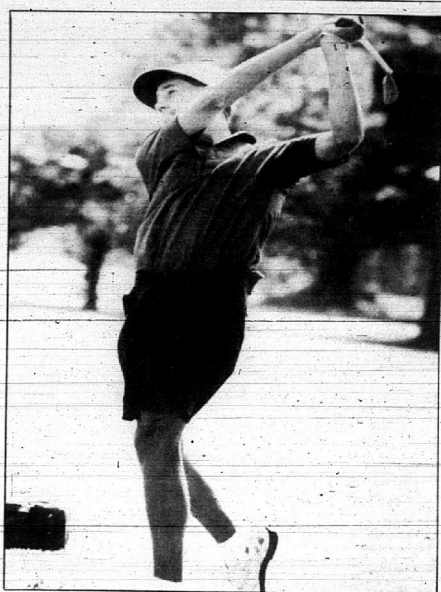

"We just couldn't get the

this course impresses me," Chappell said. "We shot a 314 at our own course in the regional and then we came up here and shot two strokes worse and still advanced. The kids worked harder in the two practice rounds we had (Sunday and Monday) than they have all year. They were prepared to play."

O'Fallon, which handed the Warriors one of their four losses during the regular season, gave coach Dan May his first sectional championship in 22 years of coaching with a total of 312. The three teams to advance to state out of Decatur all came out of the Arlington regional. The fourth team which advanced from Arlington, Edwardsville, was fifth overall with a 320.

"I think that speaks well of the quality of golf that we have," May said. "We had the best scores coming out of the regional. I wished that all four teams could have gone on to state. It's a great depiction of golf in our area."

Senior Justin Kuehn, who won the sectional last year, repeated the feat by firing a 70 to lead the Lancers. Other local golfers who advanced were Triad's Matt Gindler, O'Fallon's Todd Hancock, Edwardsville's Steve Hyten, Belleville West's Robbie Beaton and Highland's Adam Jacoby.

Granite City senior P.J. Hamilton fired a 78 at the sectional Tuesday.

Golfers end Chappell's 20-year wait for state

By Brian Henry
City Correspondent

He had to wait 20 years, but Russ Chappell will finally get to go to the state tournament.

By virtue of its third-place finish at the Decatur sectional on Tuesday, Granite City will be one of three teams representing the Metro East at the state tournament beginning Friday in Danville.

The Warriors were one of the best teams in the area during the regular season as they posted a school record 20-4 mark.

But, as Chappell said all year long, only one day during the season really mattered - Oct. 6. That was the date of the Class AA regional at Arlington, the Warriors' home course. The Warriors shot a 314 to edge out Highland (316) for a berth at the sectional.

Granite City had to orchestrate a narrow escape from Decatur as senior P.J. Hamilton. He fired a 74 to advance individually at the sectional, but he came up one stroke short of qualifying for state as an individual. His two sub-par rounds have played a large part in Granite City's post-season success.

"I'm happy about going and I'm glad I've been able to help," said Hamilton, who has his share of problems earlier in the year. "I think we can play well up at state."

Seniors Gabe Mitchell and Jon Duff have been steady all year. Duff shot a 78 in the regional, but he carded an 83 at the sectional.

this sectional has a good chance at state.

Chappell said the Elks' Club course in Danville is a little shorter than what his players are used to, but it shouldn't present too many problems.

It's a shorter course than what we played on here," he said. "It requires more shots."

His team was making the shots that counted on Tuesday. Ken Felty, a sophomore, did not play in the regional last year and he shot an 85 at Arlington last week. But he bounced back to shoot a team-leading 76 at the sectional despite three double-bogies.

"Kenny was our second guy in and he came up big," Chappell said. "I saw him take two double-bogies and that's at least 76 right there. He played the rest of the holes well. It's a nice feeling to see him play well."

Another player who has done surprisingly well in the clutch is senior P.J. Hamilton. He fired a 74 to advance individually at the sectional, but he came up one stroke short of qualifying for state as an individual. His two sub-par rounds have played a large part in Granite City's post-season success.

"I'm happy about going and I'm glad I've been able to help," said Hamilton, who has his share of problems earlier in the year. "I think we can play well up at state."

Seniors Gabe Mitchell and Jon Duff have been steady all year. Duff shot a 78 in the regional, but he carded an 83 at the sectional.

Warriors dedicate Gauntlet with 2-1 win over Redbirds

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

The Granite City soccer team has run the opposition through its home field, "The Gauntlet," for years.

The point was reaffirmed Wednesday night, when the Warriors defeated Alton 2-1. The match followed a ceremony in which school officials formally named the field and honored coach Gene Baker for his 20-year run of success with Granite City.

Baker was presented with a plaque reading "dedicated to coach Gene Baker for 20 years of soccer excellence." Earlier in the week, a sign declaring the field as "The Gauntlet" had been tilted beneath the scoreboard.

The Warriors, a perennial power in the Metro East, have won 10 state titles under Baker. The team has earned national recognition, and Baker entered Wednesday's game with a 455-9 record.

Baker said he was proud to see the Warriors' field receive an official name. The tradition started with the players years ago.

"I think for our former players to get a sign, they have to be elated," Baker said. "They took a great amount of pride in the Gauntlet idea. We're usually very hard to beat on this field."

Against Alton, the Warriors were not as dominating as usual. Still, they came out firing at Alton goalkeeper Jeff Sutton. David Partney scored midway through the first quarter on a kick that angled inside the right goalpost.

Granite City kept the pressure on in the first half, as Paul Bucherich took a pass from Shawn Peterson and kicked a roller through Sutton's legs. But that was the end of the scoring for the Warriors.

"We looked like we were going to kill them," Baker said. "Then we let up."

Alton's Aaron Henehan scored late in the second quarter when the Warriors failed to clear the ball deep in their zone. The ball trickled past goalkeeper Cory Cooper and made the score 2-1.

Alton's Aaron Henehan scored late in the second quarter when the Warriors failed to clear the ball deep in their zone. The ball trickled past goalkeeper Cory Cooper and made the score 2-1.

The teams played more evenly in the second half. It was a much different outcome than the last time the Warriors and Redbirds met - Sept. 8, when Granite City won easily 5-0 at Alton.

"We came ready to play," Nasello said. "After the first goal, I was pretty upset. But we came back after being down."

"We just couldn't get the ting goal. We came close."

Sutton's play in the net was a major reason for the close score. "He's one of the best around, there's no doubt about it," Nasello said. "He carried us out there."

"He made some good saves," Baker said.

The Warriors improved to 10-4-4 and regrouped from a difficult time at last week's Tournament of Champions. Granite City went 1-1 in tournament play.

The Warriors got some more good news earlier in the week. They received the No. 1 seed in the Edwardsville Class AA Sectional and will play their first postseason game at home Oct. 23.

Granite City was seeded ahead of No. 2 Edwardsville, Collinsville, O'Fallon, Belleville West and Highland. The title game will be played Oct. 31 at Edwardsville.

Granite City will prepare for the postseason with three home games. The Warriors play Belleville West on Saturday, McCluer North on Tuesday and St. Louis University High on Oct. 22.

Baker just hopes the Warriors can avoid close games and put teams away sooner.

"Our team has had a good year, but we lack that killer instinct," Baker said. "We're not putting the finishing touch on things."

Quarterback Pat Curry and the Warriors will line up against 5-0 SLUH this week.

Games not getting easier as Warriors look to SLUH

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

The Granite City football team will take on an undefeated opponent for the third straight week Friday when the Warriors play their homecoming game against St. Louis University High.

SLUH stands tall at 5-0, and the Warriors are struggling at 1-5. But even though the games are not getting any easier, coach Don Harris is not one to complain.

"I'd rather be playing a team like SLUH," Harris said. "I think the kids will respond well. We're being real positive about it."

"The thing we're trying to do is not so much look at what we're playing, but try to cut down on mistakes. We want to improve."

Granite City is coming off last week's 30-7 loss to Edwardsville, which entered the game undefeated. The Warriors played East St. Louis last week before East St. Louis has a loss, but it came by forfeit.

"We did not miss a beat this year despite losing an exceptional group of talented players from last year's team. The Junior-Bills lost just one regular-season game last year - against Granite City."

SLUH coach Gary Kornfeld said he is not paying much attention to Granite City's record.

"I think we'll have our hands full," Kornfeld said. "It's going to be a great game. They come right at you and hit hard. They'll be ready to go."

"They've played some people pretty well. I know (East St. Louis coach) Bob Shannon was very impressed with their progress. I wish we would have gotten them earlier in the year."

SLUH and Granite City are similar in that both teams lost a high number of players to graduation. The Junior-Bills lost all 11 starters on offense, including receiver Jason Dulick and eight defensive starters.

Yet SLUH has been able to cover itself with the emergence of several key young players. The Junior-Bills are led by a sophomore quarterback, John McArthur.

"Obviously, we're pretty started to be where we're at considering the turnover in our program," Kornfeld said. "We don't have the Division I franchise players we had last year, but we have some other athletes who have stepped forward."

Cray maintains humility despite star status

By Alan Sculley
Correspondent

As a songwriter/guitarist who has won multiple Grammy awards, and whose million-selling 1986 album "Strong Persuader" played a major role in reviving interest in blues and soul, Robert Cray is arguably the leading bluesman of the baby boomer generation.

But you'd never guess Cray's stature in conversation. Humble and soft-spoken, Cray is a top-notch guitarist who says his role is to make his band sound good. He may be a band leader, but Cray is also a consummate team player.

A similar outlook emerges when Cray discusses his writing and performing collaborations. In recent years he's worked with artists such as John Lee Hooker, Eric Clapton, Tina Turner and Keith Richards. But suggest that Cray is on equal footing with such stars, and his response is typically self-effacing.

"Oh I don't know about that," Cray said with a chuckle. "I'm still a young one and I still have respect for everybody. And, you know, I've learned a lot from a lot of my heroes."

Nevertheless, the opportunity to collaborate with such respected artists has been one of the most rewarding outgrowths of his success as a recording artist, he said.

"It's something one would never imagine happening, you know," said Cray, whose seventh album, "I Was Warned," has just been released. "And in one sense it feels really good because at least they know about you, and even better when somebody wants to take the chance to work with a younger guy."

Cray has certainly paid his dues in attaining his place in the music world.

He got his start in music in the late 1960s in Tacoma, Wash. It was there he met bassist and fellow rhythm and blues enthusiast Richard Cousins. Together they formed the first version of the Robert Cray Band in 1974.

They soon relocated to Eugene, Ore., which had a more active blues scene. After four years of club gigs, including two years as backing band for bluesman Albert Collins, Cray met songwriters Bruce Bromberg and Dennis Walker, who helped him land a deal with Tomato Records.

Cray cut the 1983 LP "Who's Been Talking" for Tomato, but the label folded soon after the record was released.

After four more years of club gigs, Cray again hooked up with Bromberg, who by then had become a partner in a label of his own, HighTone Records.

Cray's first two HighTone albums, "Bad Influence" from 1983 and "False Accusations" from 1985, made major waves in blues circles and in the rock press. More importantly, they caught the attention of Mercury Records, which signed Cray and then saw "Strong Persuader" behind its hit "Smoking Gun" and "Right Next Door (Because Of Me)," become one of the surprise hits of 1986 and 1987.

The 1988 follow-up, "Don't Be Afraid Of The Dark," yielded the hit "Acting This Way" and solidified Cray's success. But major changes for the group were in the offing.

After the album's release, longtime drummer David Olson and keyboardist Peter Boe were replaced respectively by Kevin Hayes and Jimmy Pugh. A second guitarist, Tim Kallatsu was also added, while The Memphis Horns (Andrew Love and Wayne Jackson), who played on both "Strong Persuader" and "Don't Be Afraid Of The Dark," became full-fledged band members.

Together, this beefed up lineup recorded the acclaimed 1990 release, "Midnight Strroll."

Prior to making the new record, "I Was Warned," the band underwent one more major change — the departure of original member Cousins.

"(There's) no real big story actually," Cray said of his split with Cousins. "That's just a matter of being together for so long. You kind of like grow apart a little bit in your ways of thinking about music and just being around one another. It just had to end."

"I Was Warned," has a more lean sound than the horn-accented "Midnight Strroll." Cray grabs more of the guitar spotlight than on past albums, taking expressive extended solos on such songs as "I Was Warned," "He Don't Live Here Anymore" and "Our Last Time."

Robert Cray headlines an Oct. 21 show at the Fox Theatre. Tickets for the 8 p.m. show are $23.50 and $29.50.

Edgar OKs increase in jobless pay

Gov. Jim Edgar has approved legislation implementing a series of changes in the state's unemployment insurance laws that are the result of an agreement between the state's business and labor communities.

"I am pleased that once again we were able to bring business and labor to the table to fashion an agreed bill that will work to the benefit of both employers and employees in Illinois," the governor said.

"Thanks to the efforts of business, organized labor and the Edgar Administration, employees will see their UI benefits increase and employers will realize $25 million in UI relief over the next four years."

"The UI agreement is an excellent example of what can be achieved for both the employee and the employer when all parties engage in good-faith negotiations."

Illinois AFL-CIO President Richard Walsh said, "This important legislation will result in $20 million in additional benefits for Illinois workers who have lost their jobs."

"Twelve dollars a week is a lot of money for people who have to depend on unemployment benefits to live. The level of themselves and their families. It's eight pounds of hamburger. It's enough gasoline for a couple of days of job hunting; it's a week of school lunches with a little extra for the bus."

"The agreement, which will be signed into law by the governor, is contained in House Bill 180 and was overwhelmingly approved by the General Assembly."

Sen. Jack J. Jackson, Illinois State Chamber of Commerce president
